

To Whom It May Concern,

It is with pleasure that I write this letter in strong support of Bryan as a candidate for employment.

I am a Vice President and Co-founder of Kateeva, Inc., a company headquartered in Silicon Valley, and maintains operations in Korea, Japan, Taiwan and China. Display makers use Kateeva's precision deposition equipment to enable cost-effective mass production of flexible and large-size OLED displays.

With our business expanding rapidly, Bryan Chao was recruited as a summer intern in 2017 into the marketing group for two assignments:

1. Create company PR promotion video clips with title animations
2. Develop graphics and visual elements for company brochure and signage

Flexible smartphones and color-saturated television displays represent a large and important part of the current consumer electronics market and have been receiving substantial attention at the Consumer Electronics Show (CES), held annually in Las Vegas. Many of those displays are made using organic light-emitting diodes (OLED), adopting nanostructured semiconducting films about 100 nanometers thick, with Kateeva equipment.

The relevance of Bryan's work can be illustrated in two main points: he has demonstrated high professionalism during his internship at Kateeva, furthermore he has been very focused on the quality of his work.

In particular, Bryan has a passion for creative problem solving and also obsesses over details and the little things while seeing the design through to its on-time completion. Having a good mastery over the graphic/video editing tools including Adobe Illustrator, Photoshop and Final Cut Pro, he helped create marketing assets to support marketing initiatives including print, web and multimedia presentations.

Finally, Bryan completed his assignment beyond our expectation. He has a strong interpersonal skills allowing him to easily establish good rapport with individuals from diverse professional backgrounds. He has the ability to work independently, and was always excited about collaborating and communicating closely with teams and other stakeholders, to regularly deliver design solutions for approval.

In assessing the overall performance of Bryan as an intern at Kateeva, I cannot neglect to describe other aspects of this outstanding young man. He has solid background in computer animation and graphic design, his skill versatility is extremely unique. I had the pleasure to meet and talk to him in person at one of his seminars and can attest to his brilliant and problem-solving approach to the issues and his ability to engage with people of different background and finally come up with clever solutions.

For the above stated reasons, I strongly believe Bryan Chao would be a tremendous asset for your company and has my highest recommendation. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have additional questions, I would be glad to provide any detail on this exceptional candidate.

Sincerely,

Gerry Chen
